

The Players Performance Group presents:

“What I’m Telling You is ‘Yes’”

April 22, 5 pm

April 23, 6:30 pm

Eastman Hall 201

This performance of original SCSU student writing charts difficult experiences in high school that are seldom discussed. Through their own autobiographical writing, the performers depict experiences including depression, sexual orientation, isolation, and sexual assault. The performers then offer strategies from their own lives for positive, hopeful, and supportive strategies for living.

This performance is especially relevant to first and second year students as well as people who are or who are intending to work with high school age students.
