STORMWATER POLLUTION PREVENTION PLANNING AND REVIEW

12:30 p.m. – 1:30 p.m.

Centennial Hall, Room 115

Sponsored by SCSU Safety and Environmental

The Safety/Environmental Program at SCSU is dedicated to having a sustainable Stormwater Pollution Prevention Plan. Our SCSU plan is designed to minimize, to the maximum extent practical, the possible negative impacts of the campus on the watersheds and ultimate Mississippi River ecosystem. The purpose of our plan is to satisfy compliance with the "General Permit Authorization to Discharge Storm Water Associated with Municipal Separate Storm Sewer Systems under the National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System/State Disposal System Permit Program"

What you'll learn about:

- SCSU Stormwater Best Management Practices
- SCSU Permitting requirements (6 Minimum Control Measures)
- Past and Future Practices
- SCSU Membership in the CMWEA ( Central Minnesota Water Education Alliance Educational) booth materials provided

This session will not be a traditional session but more of an open forum session allowing open discussion among participants. Please feel free to stop by anytime between 12:30-1:30 on the 7th.

PRESENTER: Joe Teff, Safety/Environmental Administrator. Joe has his master's degree in Occupational Safety and Loss Control from Stout University and a Bachelor of Science degree in Community Health from St. Cloud State University. He has a combined 30 years in the Foundry, MN Corrections and University environment.

LOVE WITHOUT BOUNDARIES - GRIEF

12:30 p.m. – 1:30 p.m.

Centennial Hall, Room 115

Sponsored by Human Resources

Description: Everyone experiences losses in life, and anyone capable of loving is capable of grieving. Often the death of a significant person is the most difficult and painful experience one will ever encounter. Though the death of a significant person in one's life generally brings about the experience of grief, there are many other losses that people experience that may bring about grief. Grief is paradoxically universal and unique. People express grief in different ways depending on a person's culture, background, history of loss and personality. Some of the topics we will cover during this presentation include: broad framework for loss, how words impact our understanding and acceptance of loss, disenfranchised grief and myths about grief and loss that many of us live by.

PRESENTERS: Marc Markell, Professor, SCSU, Department of Special Education
