"Today's generation of young people has more power to change the course of our future than any previous generation. I hope CGI U will embolden more students to help solve the great challenges we all face in the 21st century."

— President Bill Clinton

The Clinton Foundation firmly believes that no one is too young to make a difference and create positive change in their community. For over a decade, President Clinton and CGI U have worked to support the next generation of leaders by bringing together diverse groups of people who are committed to making the world a better place and improving people's lives.

Inspiring Leaders, Forging Impact

CGI U is a year-round program that helps develop the next generation of leaders and social entrepreneurs by giving undergraduate and graduate students access to training and mentorship opportunities, a wide range of international experts and changemakers, and in-person and virtual networking opportunities.

There's no cost to participate, but to be part of this program, students must commit to address a pressing local or global challenge. This commitment — called a "Commitment to Action" — takes the form of a new, specific, and measurable project that each student develops either as an individual or with their peers.

These commitments fall within one of five focus areas: Education, Environment and Climate Change, Peace and Human Rights, Poverty Alleviation, and Public Health.

Benefits of Participating in CGI U

- Commitment to Action curriculum to provide a framework on how to ideate, design, implement, and evaluate a human-centered impact project
- Personalized mentorship through CGI U's alumni leadership network of 13,000+
- Student and alumni engagement events to help connect members in the community, including the CGI U annual meeting
- Access to funding streams through CGI U's partner organizations
